

The 2020 Rockwall Youth Fair market sale scheduled to be held April 4th has been cancelled due to the current guidelines of the Center of Disease Control as proactive measures against the spread of COVID-19. As you can imagine, this was a very difficult decision to make as it does not change the hours of work and financial load our exhibitors are continuing to put into their projects. Our youth work very hard preparing their animals and agricultural mechanics projects and are disappointed that they do not get the chance to show them this year. For most of these kids, the Rockwall Youth Fair is a special time to not only show their projects but to enjoy the fellowship and spirit that can only be found at the county show.

This year we had 75 animal and agricultural mechanics projects that would have gone through the sale. Although there will be no formal sale, we are asking our past contributors to consider still allocating the funds you have spent in the past purchasing at our sale so that we may be able to relieve some of the financial burden that is affecting these kids. The money collected will be divided amongst the youth to help them purchase next year's project. It is more important than ever that we enable our youth to be active in the agricultural industry. The future of our dinner table and so much more depends on the interests we are fostering today.

As always, any contributions collected will be tax deductible. We truly appreciate you being a continued supporter of the time-honored Rockwall Youth Fair that has been supporting youth in agriculture since 1953. As parents of exhibitors and community members, our #1 goal is to encourage our youth by providing them with opportunities to better themselves. Thank you again for your interest in supporting our exhibitors.
